

Catholic Schools: Communities of Faith and Resilience

1. Faith

As communities of faith we work together to face our challenges – our individual flames contribute to a great light that shows us the way.

The light of Christ will guide us through the intriguing paths of life.

As communities of faith we are called to offer each other shelter, especially when we encounter challenges that are difficult to face.

Our communities of faith include the living and those who have gone before us – they also can be called on in times of trouble.

Even when our churches are closed or empty our faith tells us that Jesus is present – there and in the hearts of the faithful.

The beauty and order of creation draws us to God in faith and makes us aware of our responsibilities to the Earth, our common home.

When I find myself in times of trouble I can find comfort and direction in the Bible, but also I can engage with my faith community through electronic means.

‘Now, faith is the assurance of things hoped for,
the conviction
of things not seen.’

(Heb 11:1)
